December 5, January 27, March 9, April 28 ● 8:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

December 5, 2014: Lenses on Reading

Do you believe everyone at your school is on the same page about literacy development and struggling readers? Review the continuum of philosophy of research and reading development, and learn what practices you can expect depending on each philosophy. Learn collaborative strategies to help us all expand beyond our silos. Participants will be provided an article to read ahead of time in order to better appreciate how disparate educators' understandings and descriptions of RtI are. Be prepared to understand how a different view of RtI might result in different decisions about next steps for struggling readers. (A similar presentation will be offered at the WSPA conference (10/30), the Collaborative PST meeting (10/2), and WSRA (February); however, during this session there will be an opportunity for extensive discussion.)
Presenter: Kathryn Bush, Ph.D., is the school psychology program consultant at the Wisconsin DPI.

January 27, 2015: Strategies for Addressing Challenging Behaviors

Learn practical strategies for addressing challenging behaviors from the perspective of both autism spectrum disorders and emotional behavioral disabilities. Participants will learn to identify "triggers" for challenging behaviors and to effectively set limits. Development of functional behavioral assessments and behavior intervention plans will be discussed. Participants will have opportunities to practice skills through case studies and are encouraged to bring their own scenarios to problem-solve with the group.
Presenters: Diane Braker is the former director of the CESA 6 alternative schools and is currently a behavior coach in the Beaver Dam School District. Erin Lausten is an autism consultant with CESA 6.

March 9, 2015: Understanding School Report Cards, Achievement Gaps, and Wisconsin's Online Data Systems

School psychologists are often the "data experts" in a school building or district. This network session offers the opportunity to better understand school report card scores and calculation of achievement gaps as well as the online tools that are available to districts to examine outcomes. Understanding the data is the first step toward identifying and implementing evidence-based strategies to improve student outcomes in areas of concern.
Presenter: Eric Larsen is the CESA 6 Director of School Accountability. He has extensive experience leading schools through data digs, data inquiry sessions and data retreats and is focused on helping administrators understand and utilize all of Wisconsin's data tools.

April 28, 2015: Executive Functioning

Dr. Sarah Arnold will continue her conversations with the network around mental health issues and counseling strategies in the schools. This year, Dr. Arnold will focus on assessment and intervention of executive functioning as well as the impact of mental health concerns on executive functioning.
Presenter: Sarah Arnold, PsyD, is a psychologist with Doll and Associates, a service of Agnesian Healthcare, Fond du Lac. She is also the behavioral health consultant for the EC and 4K programs in the Fond du Lac School District.
