FAIRVIEW LEARNING

Tools for Literacy—A New Way of Thinking

Thursday & Friday, Dec. 17 & 18, 2015 • 8 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Presenter: Trish Vierra-Fox, MEd
Fairview Learning LLC

Description:

Fairview Learning is a five-component reading program developed specifically for learners who are deaf or hard of hearing. The program opens a window for these individuals to begin to think and sign bilingually. It reflects collaboration among educators and utilizes best practices.

This unique program provides individuals the literacy tools to construct mental, linguistic frameworks. These frameworks, specific to each user, allow access and increasing fluency in English and ASL, and ease the movement between the two languages.

The program can be seamlessly integrated into any existing reading program. Fairview Learning incorporates continuous assessment to drive instruction, increase student motivation and skills, and improve instructional techniques and accuracy. Daily progress checks are embedded within instructional and organizational techniques and are supported with user friendly forms and the online assessment site.

Fairview Learning encourages teachers to target what to teach, teach and then assess to see if the material is learned. This five-component model can be used as a Response to Intervention (RtI) protocol or as a reading intervention program to jump start and develop reading skills.

Components of FAIRVIEW LEARNING include:

1. Adapted Dolch Words
2. The Bridging Process and Reading Comprehension
3. Phonemic Awareness
4. Literature-Based Instruction
5. ASL Development/Spontaneous Written English

Who should attend?

Administrators, teachers of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, speech and language pathologists, teachers, parents and students
