

EARLY CHILDHOOD LANGUAGE & LITERACY FOUNDATIONS: BRANCHING OUT TO SUPPORT OUR YOUNGEST LEARNERS

Becoming an adult who can read and write begins in the early childhood years and requires engagement in quality early literacy opportunities. This event will provide participants with knowledge about the foundations of early literacy, how they are supported by the WMELS, and opportunities to support literacy development through play.

PRESENTER:

DALE BAILEY, M.A., CCC-SLP, WI STATEWIDE EARLY LITERACY COORD.

Dale was licensed as an SLP in 1998, working primarily with children B-8. Over a 10 year period, Dale worked as a K-12 special education consultant , providing cognitive ability and academic achievement assessment services to school districts. Services were typically specific to working with students and IEP teams to determine why students were struggling with reading skill development. Dale has a special interest in the connection between oral language (listening & speaking) and written language (reading & writing). He has consulted in the areas of AAC and data/school improvement and taught courses in language development, reading/writing intervention and special education assessment.
