

ADOLESCENT READING Rx: WHAT TO TRY WHEN TEEN READERS CAN'T OR WON'T!

Oshkosh, WI | March 17, 2020 | 9:00 AM – 3 PM

Demolish disengagement, boost comprehension, and turn nonreaders into readers! Join Samantha Bennett to learn powerful ways to reach reluctant readers and help struggling readers succeed. Samantha will lead an exploration of tested strategies that will derail disengagement and improve comprehension of increasingly complex texts. She will teach us how to leverage formative assessments to create instructional feedback and how to develop meaningful summative assessments and grading practices.

WORKSHOP OBJECTIVES:

Participants will:

- Find ways to create a web of authentic, compelling reasons for students to read
- Evaluate the efficiency and effectiveness of instruction on a daily, weekly, quarterly, or annual basis
- Discover strategies to help students comprehend more sophisticated texts over time
- Learn techniques for checking whether readers are improving over time
- Analyze and revise current unit plans in order to impact student engagement as readers and writers

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Teachers of 6th through 12th grade students, Reading Specialists, Literacy Coaches and other leaders, such as Instructional Coaches and Principals.
