

2019-20 ASSISTIVE TECHNOLOGY LEARNING NETWORK

Join us for this networking series with the goal of bringing educational professionals together to learn and explore what assistive technology is, how it can support learners, and problem solve around needs. Participants will interact with and explore tools discussed in each session. In addition, attendees will learn and review resources to conduct an AT assessment to identify the individual student need, allowing the team to target tools and devices to increase student access. Many of the tools discussed can be used to support all learners through the lens of Universal Design for Learning.

Who should attend?

Anyone with dedication to learning and sharing with others within your district about assistive technology and how it can improve student access, independence and outcomes. It will be essential for participants to attend all 4 sessions.
