

Using Emergent Storybook Reading in Pre-K to Support Young Readers

March 12, 2021 | 9 AM – 2:30 PM

Participate in person, virtually, or purchase the recording of the workshop to review at your convenience.

- ⇒ Have you ever wondered how you can naturally and appropriately support a love of reading with your young learners, even before they may be reading conventionally?
- ⇒ Are you looking for a way to support learners' oral language development through authentic contexts, while providing each learner with a strong foundation of texts that they know so well they can "read" them all by themselves?
- ⇒ Are you wondering how you can best support your learners' identities as readers, even before they may know their letters and/or sounds?

If so, this workshop offering may be the perfect fit for you!

This workshop will immerse you in the world of Emergent Storybook Reading, based on the work of renowned researcher, Elizabeth Sulzby.

Join us for this day of learning, as we work to support our youngest readers in playful and joyful literacy ways!

OBJECTIVES

Participants will:

- Explore the fundamentals, research, and rationale which provide a foundation for Emergent Storybook Reading
- Examine factors to consider when selecting texts
- Understand the structure of Emergent Storybook Reading
- Experience the facilitation of Emergent Storybook Reading
- Explore and engage in a planning process
- Consider how a core text of Emergent Storybooks can serve as a bridge between the 4K and 5K classrooms
- Contemplate how to support young learners as they read Emergent Storybooks on their own
