Meet the Presenters:

Stephanie Harvey, Debbie Miller, and Cris Tovani invite you to spend three days learning about comprehension theory and practice K-12. Each presenter will share her current thinking about literacy teaching and learning and how to help students turn information into knowledge. In this era of Common Core State Standards, kids need to think more deeply than ever before. The thinking strategies explored in this institute will help students not only meet but exceed the CCSS.

Steph, author of Strategies that Work, and The Comprehension Tool Kit, was a classroom and special education teacher and now does national literacy consulting.

Debbie, author of Reading with Meaning and Teaching with Intention, taught for 30 years in the Denver Public Schools and now works as a staff developer throughout the country.

Cris, author of I Read it But Don't Get it and So What do They Really Know? is a former elementary teacher who currently teaches high school and works as a literacy coach and national staff developer.

COMPREHENSION TIMES THREE (CX3) COMPREHENSION WITH COMMON CORE

Workshop Features include:

- Expanding comprehension across the curriculum
- Creating and maintaining an active learning classroom
- Differentiating with reader's and writer's workshop
- Using learning targets to support student growth
- Implementing small group inquiry circles across the curriculum
- Integrating comprehension with the Common Core Standards
- Monitoring progress through assessment and grading

More Information:

Steph, Debbie, and Cris's collaboration began in Denver in the early 90's, at the Public Education and Business Coalition (PEBC) a non-profit designed to support innovation in public schools. They now have written multiple resources between them and continue to promote thoughtful literacy practice across the country.

Each morning one of the three presenters (Day 1—Steph, Day 2—Debbie, Day 3—Cris) will address the large group in a keynote speech followed by three breakout groups designed to go deeper into grade level learning.

Audience:

Appropriate for classroom teachers K-12, administrators, librarians, literacy coaches, specialists, and staff developers.
