Description

Young students arrive at school ready to engage and eager to learn. The Primary Comprehension Toolkit gives teachers the guidance they need to hook their eager learners with the essential components and strategies of an active literacy classroom.

This course familiarizes teachers with the resource's components, including 6 strategy books, a teacher's guide, a DVD-ROM of electronic resources, a source book of short text, and a lesson text poster pack. Teachers explore the 22 lessons/practices and six strategy books at the core of The Primary Comprehension Toolkit, which are organized around fundamental comprehension strategies and designed for instruction with large groups, small groups, guided reading, and individual conferences. Video footage of Harvey and Goudvis teaching lessons provides a powerful example for teachers. Teachers will see the moves and hear the language that bring alive an active literacy classroom and guides students in their acquisition of the reading, writing, and thinking skills needed to enjoy and comprehend the amazing world of non-fiction.

The Primary Comprehension Toolkit builds on young students' natural curiosity and gives them the tools they need to negotiate informational text, think about what they're reading, and hold their thinking so they can understand and remember it—and use it to guide new learning.

Participants need to bring the Comprehension Toolkit with them to the workshop.
