

Serving all CESA 6 Districts: Effectiveness Project[®] and Wisconsin educator effectiveness

Effectiveness Project[®] Central Office Performance Evaluation System (COPES) Formative Calibration Training

Facilitated by Mary Wallen of Strong & Associates Educational Consulting, LLC.

Mary Wallen is the Director of Project Planning. She has over 38 years of educational experience in an urban public school district in Virginia, serving in positions ranging from that of a classroom teacher to a central office administrator. Her classroom experience included both regular and gifted education in an elementary setting. After 15 years of teaching in the classroom, she spent the next three years as a "teacher trainer" providing professional development to teachers in grades pre-K through 12. Mary then became an elementary school administrator, serving as the principal of two elementary schools for the next 20 years. In her last role with the district she was a Leadership Coach, providing guidance and support to principals of Title I schools. Mary received her B.S. from Bridgewater State College in Massachusetts and her MA. Ed. from the College of William and Mary.

Who Should Attend?

Evaluators and evaluates of central office district personnel.

Description

Using video and representative artifacts from central office personnel, participants gain a practical understanding of collecting objective evidence and how the performance standards and indicators really look in practice so they can provide more effective feedback for meaningful improvement and lay the foundation for summative decisions. Participants also explore how to avoid bias and judge the quality of data.
