Description:

Teaching vocabulary is a key component of the Common Core State Standards. Helping our students build and “own” their vocabulary is critical to their literacy skills, achievement on assessments and their success in career and college.

In this workshop, participants will receive materials and activities that can be used in the classroom and learn how to identify vocabulary for explicit instruction and explore specific research supported vocabulary activities to help students build their listening, speaking, reading and writing vocabularies, including:

- Research on oral language, vocabulary and language acquisition, four part word recognition processor, foundational literacy skills and Tier I words
- Current research on vocabulary instruction involving Tier II words, indirect and direct instruction, multiple exposures, structural analysis, context clues, and using resources
- Current research on academic vocabulary instruction involving Tier III words, content literacy strategies, close reading, and instructional routines

Audience:

K-5 teachers, Title I Teachers, Reading Specialists, ELL Teachers, Special Education Teachers and Paraprofessionals.
