

Podcasting for Educators

The World is Talking! Are You Listening?

When: December 17, 2010
Where: CESA #2, 448 East High St. Milton, WI 53563
Time: 9:00 am to 2:30 pm (Sign in - 8:45 am)
Register: Registration must be received by December 10, 2010

Podcasting! You've heard of it, seen your students carrying iPods, and you want to know more about what it is. In this introductory workshop, you will learn about educational podcasting and how it is currently being used in classrooms around the nation. This hands-on workshop will show you how easy it is to create your own audio broadcast- with free and low cost Windows based content media tools. You'll learn how to record and edit your audio narration, how to add music and digital photos, and when you're done, how to send and publish your podcast. Many examples of educational-related Podcasts will be presented and participants will learn how to 'subscribe' and listen to Podcasts through free software. You will also gain a general understanding of the instructional technology involved, in which to create a content based podcast for your classroom. So, get ready to engage in the culture of your Digital Native students and, perhaps, find a new avenue for connecting with them . . . in more ways than one.

Who Should Attend?

- K-12 Teachers ,Technology Coordinators, LMC Specialists, Special Ed Teachers, Administrators
- This workshop will be using the Microsoft Windows operating system. All participants should have basic knowledge of Windows[®] .

After completing this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Define what educational podcasting is and how it impacts education
- Briefly describe the technology and equipment involved
- Identify reasons for using content based podcasting in a course
- Recognize the characteristics & learning styles of your "Digital Native" students
- Identify how podcasting is presently being used in K-12 classes
- Understand the importance of scripting and "telling your story"
- Discover the multitude of music genres and digital photos to enhance your content based podcasts
