

Champions' Academy: Training of Trainers

Build capacity for long-term sustainability

Building internal experts is a great way to ensure deep implementation and sustainability of success over time. Champions' Academies provide a core team of educators from each school with advanced knowledge and tools to support their building staff in the implementation of Renaissance Learning™ resources. Champions participate in three day-long seminars over the course of the year.

These sessions, along with ongoing support from Renaissance-U™ and accompanying coaching services, incrementally build deep understanding for participants and support a gradual release of responsibility that enables Champions to provide effective guidance to teachers and administrators.

The Champions' Academy: Training of Trainers service will provide:

- Three face-to-face onsite seminars with a Renaissance Learning Consultant to build and deepen the trainers' knowledge
- Ongoing support for data analysis and implementation questions with an Implementation and Data Coach throughout the year
- Access to Renaissance-U for all educators and district administrators throughout the year

As a result of participating in the Training of Trainers: Champions' Academy, trainers will:

- Gain deeper knowledge of best practices in implementing Renaissance solutions and apply them to drive success
- Provide on-going, job-embedded training and support on essential practices through tutorials and activities in Renaissance-U
- Facilitate data conversations to ensure data drives instructional decision making
- Monitor progress and plan next steps with the support of a Renaissance Learning Consultant and Implementation and Data Coach
- Take on increasing responsibility to support effective implementation in their school over time as they are ready
