

Social Studies Network

School Improvement Services - CESA 5

Understanding Tribal Government & Tribal Sovereignty

Tuesday, Oct. 13, 2015 9:00am-2:00pm

CESA 5, 626 E. Slifer St., Portage

David O'Connor, Native American Studies Consultant from the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, is returning due to popular demand!

October 13 will find us continuing from David's last visit with a "deeper dive" into understanding how contemporary Tribal Government and Sovereignty work in the scope of the state and federal government. Participants will be able to compare and contrast various forms of government and their citizens inherent rights and responsibilities. (WI Model Academic Social Studies Standards– Strand C and NCSS Thematic Standards A-6,10) Educators will then be able to take this information and their lesson plans and be able to inspire deeper understanding and relevance to local governments.

NEW!!

This day will also include a "field trip". Participants will receive admission and a tour of the Historic Indian Agency House!

<http://agencyhouse.org>

Built in 1832, the Historic Indian Agency House stands on its original spot at the portage between the Fox and Wisconsin rivers in South central Wisconsin.

The Social Studies Network will also feature the popular "lesson plan share".

Participant Lesson Sharing Options:

A. Email the lesson to raatzr@cesa5.org

B. Bring a paper copy

C. Post in our Google + Community "CESA 5 Social Studies"

Lesson plans can be on any topic and/or grade level.

Please register by Wednesday, Oct. 7, 2015

Who Should Attend:

K-12 educators seeking to enhance their knowledge and those seeking the details regarding implementation of WI Act 34.

Register online at:

<http://www.myquickreg.com/>

Questions:

Rick Raatz at 608.745.5492
or raatzr@cesa5.org

Cost:

$50 per person .

FREE for Consortium Members.
Contact Rick Raatz to see if your district is a member of the consortium.

Day: Oct. 13, 9:00 to 2:00

(Lunch Provided)