Description:

Join us for a day of collaboration and teamwork designed to improve literacy outcomes. As district leaders, you have the responsibility for creating the conditions under which teaching and learning occur. Having a shared understanding of what the term “College and Career Ready” means as well as a way to assess the system needed to accomplish this outcome is critical. This is shared work. CESA 2’s role in building capacity for this work is to provide the time, space and framework from which districts can assess their systems and practices.

We will start with a “big picture” overview of the work before focusing on your local context and application of the system and practice components for ensuring ALL students leave high school prepared. Teams will understand a framework for this work that includes:

- ◆ Foundations for College and Career Readiness (CCR)
- ◆ System components necessary for instruction and literacy
- ◆ Critical components of literacy instruction
- ◆ Effective instructional practices

Teams will:

- ◆ Reflect on the current context for their work
- ◆ Apply the framework to their district

Intended Audience: District leaders including Superintendents, Student Services Directors, Curriculum and Instruction Directors and Title 1 Coordinators

Presenters:

Gail Anderson, CESA 2 RSN Director, Instructional Center Leader
Diane Jensen, CESA 2 Instructional Consultant
Lynn Johnson, Wisconsin Rtl Technical Assistance Coordinator
Ed O’Connor, CESA 2 Systems Support Center Leader
Trisha Spende, CESA 2 School Improvement (ELA) Consultant
Lynee Tourdot, CESA 2 Instructional Coach/Educator Effectiveness
Mary Jo Ziegler, CESA 2 Title 1 Coordinator, Instructional Consultant
