Supporting Positive Behaviors for all Students

Tuesday, Aug. 2, 2016 – 9 a.m. to noon

Facilitated by Terrance M. Scott, Ph.D.

This session will be led by Dr. Terrance Scott, a professor and distinguished university scholar at the University of Louisville where he directs the Center for Academic and Behavior Research. Terrance M. Scott, PhD, began his special education career as a counselor in a residential treatment center adjudicated adolescent boys. After receiving his master's degree in special education he taught in self-contained classrooms and directed public school programs for students with emotional and behavioral disorders.

Terrance has authored more than 70 published articles, book chapters, and training media in the areas of behavioral disorders and behavioral support systems and is a past editor of the professional journal Beyond Behavior. In 2004, he received the Distinguished Early Career Award from the Research Division of the International Council for Exceptional Children. His main research interests are related to students with challenging behavior, with special focus on school-wide prevention, effective instruction, functional behavior assessment, and effective classroom and behavior management.
