

Using Readers Rules of Notice

to Read Fiction and Non-Fiction Text

Featuring Dr. Jeff Wilhelm

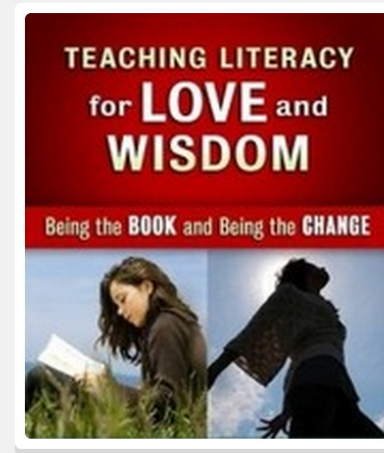

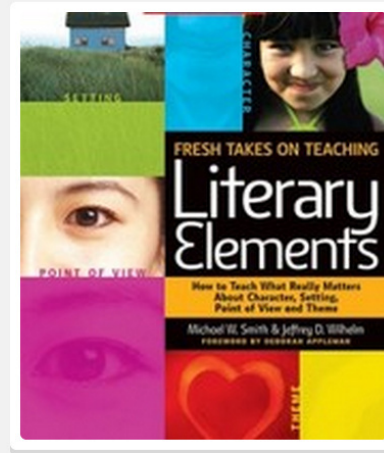

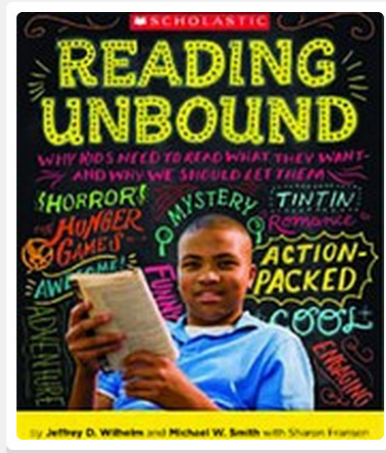

These interactive workshops will explore how to motivate and assist students to more expertly read fiction and nonfiction texts of all kinds! Using Peter Rabinowitz's notion of "readers rules of notice" empowers students to notice the topics of nonfiction reading, the key details, text structure, and how these textual "codes" work together to create meaning and effect.

DIVING DEEP INTO FICTION AND NONFICTION TEXTS BY USING READERS RULES OF NOTICE

This interactive workshop will explore how to motivate and assist students to more expertly read both fiction and nonfiction texts by using "readers rules of notice". You will learn how to use visual texts, thinking aloud, questioning, practicing in miniature, and microwriting to help students learn to notice textual topics, key details, genre and text structure, and how to interpret students learn to notice textual topics, key details, genre and text structure, and how to interpret how all of these textual "codes" and "conventions" work together to create meanings and effects.

COST

$175/Teacher* (includes your choice of 1 Jeff Wilhelm Resource)

*Free to 1 Title / Staff Member / District

When

Friday, Oct. 14th, 9am

Where

1300 Industrial Drive Fennimore, WI

Get Directions

Register Today!

<http://myquickreg.com>

Meredith Biba, Title I Coordinator

 @Meredith_Biba

 1300 Industrial Drive, Fennim...

 mbiba@cesa3.k12.wi.us

 608-822-2160

 cesa3.org