Training Objectives

- Gain specific tools and activities to address anti-gay bullying and harassment to start making it better right now for students in your school and district;
- Develop common responses to anti-gay slurs;
- Identify and develop concrete strategies to address barriers that prevent the creation of safe schools;
- Understand legal and ethical responsibilities to ensure safe schools for LGBTQ youth and all students;
- Learn the basics about the LGBTQ acronym;
- Identify and understand factors that place LGBTQ youth and targets of anti-gay harassment at greater risk for school failure, mental health and physical health issues.
- Hear first hand from LGBTQ young people about their struggles, successes, and suggestions for building a safer school environment.

Registration Fee (includes lunch):

$75/person or $125/team of 5

We are encouraging teams of adults and/or teams of adults and students (middle and high school) to learn about the broad impact of anti-gay bullying and how they can make it better in their schools and community. Ideal students would not necessarily be students in GSAs – although they would definitely be welcome. What has worked so far are students who are the targets of bullies (it's empowering for them), student leaders (such as student council or students responsible for school climate), sport team leaders, etc. Their task would be to come up with a plan for change (personal as well as organizational) that they could take back to their school and community.

Registration Deadline is February 18, 2011**
