

Katie Novak Presents UDL: An Educator's Guide to the Galaxy

February 17, 2017

Glacier Canyon Conference
Center at the The Wilderness
Wisconsin Dells, WI

9:00 am - 3:00 pm

Universal Design for Learning expert Katie Novak will bring an interactive day of professional development where teachers and administrators with varying levels of background knowledge and familiarity with Universal Design for Learning (UDL) will examine the processes of UDL and how they can implement the framework in their learning environment to design and deliver rigorous, next generation lessons and assessments.

There will be time dedicated to designing curriculum, instruction, and assessments that align to the UDL principles and foster self-direction and creativity in all learners.

This session will be energetic, engaging, and anything but typical!
