

K-8 Reading Strategies

Are you new to reader's workshop?
Have you been trying to use a workshop approach in your classroom, but are having trouble putting all of the pieces together? Then the workshop series is just for you!

We will cover a wide range of topics related to reader's workshop, including conferring with readers, the importance of student choice, and close reading - just to name a few!

The focus is K-8, but will be organic to the people in the room and content will come from many sources.

Come learn along with us!

SO, WHAT ARE READING STRATEGIES?

Have you wanted to incorporate reading strategies into your classroom routine but have had trouble getting started? This session will focus on what a reading strategy is and how you can use workshop model in your classroom to influence student success. We will watch videos and learn different strategies to help improve student comprehension, increase fluency, build reading stamina, and support emergent readers.

2/13/18, 9 am - 3 pm @ CESA 5

THE IMPORTANCE OF STUDENT CHOICE

How do we inspire our students to love reading?
This session will cover mentor texts:

- Some basic guidelines between mentor texts and read alouds
- New and exciting books to use K-8

4/10/18, 9 am - 3 pm @ CESA 5

CONFERRING WITH READERS & CLOSE READING

Conferring: We will learn the why and how of conferring and walk away with ideas and resources to get started in your classroom.

Close Reading: We will learn the purpose of close reading and how to use close reading in the elementary classroom. You will walk away with ideas and resources that will be useful to you and your students.
