Script to Screen: Film Making 101

An opportunity for middle and high school students to engage in film making workshops focused on: elements of narrative, the language of film, show - don't tell, seed stories, screenwriting, story boarding, vibrant shot choice, and editing. Students will apply their knowledge to direct, film, and edit their own movies. Students will present their films at CESA 4 and at their school.

This event is FREE for MVGT Consortium Members. Students will work in teams of 4 with 1 adult advisor.

Charis Collins has worked for several years with Gifted/Talented students and Arts Integration in public schools. She wrote and helped to produce "North Passage," an independent film that made its debut at the Flyway Film Festival in Pepin, WI and continues to contribute to short films like "Onere," which has won top prizes at film festivals all over the world.
