

Presents

DR. MICHAEL FORD – UW OSHKOSH
DOUBLE DIFFERENTIATION
FEBRUARY 10, 2012
9:00-2:30

Target Audience: Elementary and Middle School Teachers and those staff members that support K-8 students and teachers.

This workshop makes differentiation easy to understand and easy to do! Understand how readers differ and what actions teachers can take to reach different readers.

Teachers are challenged to reach readers that often present widely different strengths and needs. What teachers bring to these readers in terms of supports, texts, and grouping makes all the difference. This workshop surveys what is known about differentiating instruction and then provides down-to-earth advice on how to apply that knowledge in simple, practical ways. Dr. Michael Ford will present four foundational models for reaching all readers. You'll quickly discover you can do differentiation as you.

- Grouping Without Tracking
- Jigsawing
- Connected Literature Circles
- Focused Readers Workshop

These four models have been designed to make differentiation manageable and reading enjoyable for all readers, no matter their differences. You'll find all the essentials you'll need for success and even a strong framework to adapt for RTI.

ESEA Membership/Leadership Schools: Barneveld, Benton, Cassville, Cuba City, Darlington, Highland, Ithaca, Pecatonica, Platteville, Potosi, Prairie du Chien, Richland, Southwestern and Wauzeka.

COST: *$40 per person for materials and lunch (ESEA Member Schools).
$150 per person for Non-Membership schools.*

Please register for this event using the following website.

Questions? Phone Sharon Ennis 608.822.3276 ext.209 sennis@cesa3.k12.wi.us
Brad Brogley 608.822.3276 ext. 255 bbrogley@cesa3.k12.wi.us

NOTE: Dr. Michael Ford will have his books available at the workshop and the cost will be approximately $12.