Creating Social Studies Curriculum with a Social Justice Lens

DESCRIPTION: District teams will work collaboratively to generate curricular units that use principles of Universal Design, Understanding by Design, and Culturally Responsive Practices. The goal of this 2-day series is to provide educators with the tools necessary to create a series of units that support the New Wisconsin State Social Studies Standards and offer students windows and mirrors into our society and the world so that they approach life with a lens of social justice and critical literacy.

This event is currently planned to be held in-person with a limited amount of people and online. When registering, please select your preferred method of attendance.

PRESENTERS: Mary Jo Ziegler and Kim Stieber-White

Mary Jo Ziegler has worked in diverse educational settings for over 30 years. The first 15 years of her career were spent in classrooms teaching grades 2-8. After earning an M.S. in Reading, she moved into an instructional coaching and intervention role at Sherman Middle School in Madison, Wisconsin. A second Master's Degree in Educational Leadership led to roles as district instructional resource teacher, a literacy coordinator, PK-12 director of instruction, and DPI consultant. Across the years, MJ has worked to support educators as they design engaging and effective learning opportunities that motivate achievement by building routines and scaffolds to guide students through successful learning experiences.

Kim Stieber-White joins CESA 2 with deep knowledge and experience in Social Justice, Technology and Literacy. Her experience in schools spans urban, suburban, and rural settings and includes classroom English Language Arts, Reading Specialist, Library Media Specialist, Technology Integrator, and Instructional Coach. Kim is in the process of completing a PhD in Educational Leadership and Policy Analysis with a focus on Literacy and Equity.
