The Nuts and Bolts of Apraxia Therapy

Establishing an appropriate treatment plan based on the principles of motor learning is essential when treating childhood apraxia speech (CAS). For minimally verbal children with suspected CAS, the principles of motor learning should still guide the treatment approach. This course will outline goal writing, target selection, therapy strategies and activities, use of multisensory cueing, and carryover techniques for speech-language pathologists working with toddlers, preschoolers, and early school-aged children who have CAS or suspected CAS.
