The workshop is designed to provide participants with the knowledge and information they need to integrate the requirements of American Indian Studies into lesson plans, material selections, pedagogical practices, and district curriculum. Information about the Wisconsin Indian nations' histories, treaty rights, sovereignty, and cultures will be presented throughout the training workshop.

Goals: Share best practices, information, model programs, and resources with administrators and educators so that they are knowledgeable about American Indian Studies in Wisconsin and are able to meet the requirements of Wisconsin Act 31.

Licensure: Please note participation in both sessions along with the completion of two follow-up assignments is necessary to fulfill the DPI licensure requirements.
