NVCI Refresher Course

DESCRIPTION: At this event, participants will be recertified by CPI in NVCI. This training helps staff review the signs a student may demonstrate when they are starting to feel anxious. Staff review how to intervene quickly with support to deescalate the student. Staff are also reminded to be aware of their own actions, behaviors and words as what they say and do will affect the student. Participants review specific tools on how to intervene with a student in crisis in the most appropriate and least restrictive way. Finally, staff will review disengagement and holding skills to only be used if needed as a last resort during a crisis situation. Participants will renew their Blue Card from CPI to show they are recertified in NVCI. Both sessions contain the same content.

nonviolent crisis intervention®

PRESENTER: Kristi Kimberlin and Stacy Duffy

Kristi Kimberlin is a Social Worker for CESA 2. She joins CESA 2 from Indianapolis, IN where she has over 20 years experience working with children, families, and schools. Her background includes work in private practice, school social work and counseling, and health education. Kristi holds an undergraduate degree in Elementary Education and a Master's degree in Social Work with special certifications in School Counseling and in working with the emotional and social health of young children. Providing life-skills programming to students in the classroom is a passion of hers, along with coaching and supporting those working with children.

Stacy Duffy, the Transition and Identification Specialist at CESA 2, is an accomplished special education teacher and transition coordinator with a Master's Degree in Education. She comes to CESA 2 with experience in transition planning for students with disabilities, collaborating with districts, students, families and community agencies to improve postsecondary outcomes for students with disabilities, working with postsecondary education partners, ACP, the CCR IEP process, Project SEARCH, co-teaching at the secondary level, UDL, and NVCI.
