

Autism Networking Meeting

ADVANCED SOCIAL-COGNITIVE THINKING

Friday, January 20, 2012

Come and continue to explore the abstract social world encountered by our students on the autism spectrum through a different approach that goes beyond teaching social skills. This half-day training is a continuation of the introduction to social-cognitive thinking workshop. The presentation will focus on communication, language and anxiety. Participants will leave with concrete ideas, strategies and numerous resources that can readily be applied in the classroom.

Instructor: Lisa Andreini, Special Education Teacher for 20 years in the Pulaski Community School District with an emphasis on social-cognitive and social-emotional learning, Mentor Training under Michelle Garcia Winner.

Jean Potter, Speech-Language Therapist, Over 30 years experience in the field with an emphasis on autism spectrum disorders and communication with a side of humor.

Ideas inspired by the work of Michelle Garcia Winner and TMSocial Thinking term trademark, www.socialthinking.com
