

Intercultural Competence: A Pathway to Belonging

January 24, 2023

8:30 AM - 12:00 PM

Facilitators: Kim Walters | Director
Jae Henderson | Consultant

Culturally competent teachers understand that the classroom cultures they create inevitably reflect their own home culture. A culturally competent teacher understands the important differences in subjective culture and creates a space so that students from a variety of backgrounds may experience a sense of belonging.

We need to communicate to every student, “I see you and I welcome you as you are.” I can only see you if I see all of you. Our commitment to cultural competency starts here.

Culturally competent teachers know that treating everyone fairly does not always mean treating them the same. This will be an interactive workshop that offers engaging dialogue opportunities and reflective journaling.

Note: One additional hour of time is required for each participant to receive their one-on-one confidential results from the Intercultural Development Inventory and their customized plan to grow their intercultural competence.
