The STEM/STEAM/Science Specialist Network is an opportunity for educators in these roles to learn about and experience best practices in a collaborative space. Oftentimes educators in these roles are singletons in their building and district who are without a colleague to collaborate with. The purpose of the quarterly meetings is for educators to connect and collaborate; share ideas, resources, and best practices; and participate in their own learning experiences. The network is dedicated to advancing STEM/STEAM learning through innovative and effective instructional design, curriculum development, and the use of technology.
