

Cultural Competence: Communicating Across Cultures

February 22, 2024

9:00 AM – 12:00 PM

Virtual, recording shared

FACILITATED BY:
KIM WALTERS & LAURICE SNYDER,
CENTER 4ALL

A critical difficulty we face in our organizations and schools is that communication misunderstandings, conflicts, and problems across cultures are often grounded in very different approaches people take for resolving difficulties with one another. Recognizing and effectively responding to cultural differences in communication and conflict styles is critically important. In this workshop participants will learn about the importance of demonstrating vulnerability and transparency in leadership and acquire skills to have brave conversations about sensitive topics. This interactive workshop offers engaging dialogue, opportunities for meaningful reflection, and actionable takeaways.

Note: One additional hour is required for each participant to receive their one-on-one confidential results from the Intercultural Development Inventory (IDI) and their customized plan to increase their intercultural competence. These virtual one-hour meetings will occur after the workshop.

Key Takeaways

This immersive workshop experience includes collaborative learning and dialogue among participants to:

- Deepen your knowledge and skills of inclusive leadership practices such as establishing community agreements, having and facilitating courageous conversations across cultures, demonstrating vulnerability and transparency in leadership.
- Learn how to facilitate equity of voice in decision-making.
- Increase your sense of cultural competency, cultural empathy, and cultural humility.

You will also...

- Engage with the Intercultural Conflict Style (ICS) inventory
- Engage with the Intercultural Development Inventory (IDI)
- Receive a customized plan to increase your intercultural competence
- Receive a one-hour confidential debrief of your individual results after this workshop

Reserve your spot to gain knowledge and understanding that benefits you and your personal and professional workspaces.

$380/person

Check-in: 30 minutes before start time