LEADERSHIP IN A PLC

Implementing professional learning community concepts and practices forces everyone in a school district to think and act in different ways. The reculturing of schools to improve student learning is hard work; it requires leadership behaviors that motivate and inspire others to do things collectively that perhaps they never thought possible. This series of three workshops is aimed at district administrative teams (Superintendent, C & I, Pupil Services, Principals, etc.) involved in leading the effort to implement PLCs. The format will provide an opportunity for facilitated learning, collaborative dialogue with leaders from other districts, and time for each district team to plan its own next steps.
