

Adolescent Literacy Network Series

September 28, November 30, January 25, and March 29

Facilitated by, Lisa Arneson

If your district is searching for ways to improve adolescent literacy practices, or if you are a teacher who works with adolescent readers with widely varying abilities, we invite you to join our networking group. As educators, we are our own best resources, and several districts in CESA 5 are meeting the literacy needs of struggling students in unique and effective ways.

This networking opportunity is perfect for reading specialists, coaches and teachers of adolescents, which typically includes students in grades 4-12.

Some topics we will address this year include:

- Using Reading/Writing workshop at the secondary level
- Writing instruction and assessments
- The new standards and their impact on our work
- RtI and appropriate interventions for adolescents
- Creating and supporting district literacy initiatives

Other topics may be added based on participants' suggestions.
