Literacy Leaders

Almost 7,000 students drop out of high school every day (Alliance for Excellent Education, 2006). One of the most commonly cited reasons for this is that students simply do not have the literacy skills to keep up with the rigorous curriculum demands as they progress through school. This features current research on literacy assessment, instruction, and intervention.

Level 1—Basic Service—Literacy Leaders Network

Focus: reviewing current resources, learning and practicing best practices in reading and learning strategies, and programming for professional development back in districts.

Group Members: reading specialists, literacy coaches or district literacy leaders who work with grades K-12 teachers or lead teachers in the district.

Time: Three full-day meetings. Topics include sharing of instructional best practices including workshop models, formative assessment tools, and research-based interventions including the CCBC event. Time will be allotted during each meeting to establish a framework for professional development roll out to be conducted by each district literacy leader.

Resources: A copy of a current resource about literacy will be processed during the network meetings. In the network meeting technology will be infused in the learning environment.

Level 2 – Customized Service—On Site Reading and Learning Strategies for All Content Areas

Buildings looking to implement reading and learning strategies in the content areas can receive on-site professional development to improve student learning and reading success to support the Common Core State Standards. Explore discipline literacy for your specialists to enhance the core too. This service can be flexible in its format combining technology and face-to-face communication.
