

Nonviolent Crisis Intervention Training

Tuesday, August 27, 2013

A potentially violent situation is an unsettling situation for everyone involved. The person who has "acted out" may run the gamut of emotions from fear to embarrassment. The person who attempts to intervene is subjected to tremendous stress and fear for his/her own personal safety.

Nonviolent Crisis Intervention Training will teach you how to prevent an emotionally and physically threatening situation from escalating out of control. The training will teach you practical techniques to help you defuse and explosive situation and feel confident about it. The NVCI techniques emphasize both the staff person and the acting out person. NVCI only recommends physical restraint when all verbal and paraverbal techniques have been exhausted.

Nonviolent Crisis Intervention Training will teach you skills, which allow you to: identify the potential for violent or disruptive behavior; reduce tensions; prevent violent episodes; intervene safely in violent situations and develop safe humanistic approaches to crisis intervention.

PRESENTER: Deb Wall, Certified NVCI Trainer (CESA 8)

TARGET

AUDIENCE: Regular Education Teachers, Special Education Teachers, Paraprofessionals, Principals, Guidance Counselors, School Psychologists, Pupil Service Staff

WHEN: Tuesday, August 27, 2013
8:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.

WHERE: CESA 8 Office
223 West Park Street, Gillett

COST: $70.00 per person – Member Districts (Includes training workbook and lunch)
$100.00 per person – Non-member Districts (Includes training workbook and lunch)

To register log on to <http://login.myquickreg.com/event>

Participants are encouraged to "dress casually" and wear closed-toe shoes.