Thinkfinity for Wisconsin Educators

Who: K-12 teachers and other interested educators

When: June 16 – August 10, 2010
Online class using Moodle available 24/7 with weekly assignments and discussions

Description:

Participants in this eight-week online course will explore in depth the Verizon Thinkfinity web site (<http://www.thinkfinity.org>) and the nine partner web sites to find standards-based Internet resources for the classroom. They will develop a list of online resources appropriate for their classroom and professional development. They will take part in guided practice using advanced search strategies and will critically evaluate lessons and resources for the quality appropriate for 21st Century skills. They will discuss best practice examples and methodologies for assessing the impact of these resources on instruction. Participants will use their new knowledge to develop integration plans and curriculum units that incorporate Thinkfinity resources and high quality content into their teaching repertoire. Unit plans will include a plan for both formative and summative assessments. Unit plans and reflections will be due one week following the conclusion of the online class. This class will address Wisconsin Teacher Standards #1, #2, #3, #4, #6, #7, and #8.

Note: An optional introductory face-to-face session is scheduled for Tuesday, June 15th (9:00-noon) at the CESA 5 Office for participants who are unfamiliar with Moodle or who would prefer to get a head start on the Week 1 activities.

Viterbo Credit Option: An optional two graduate credits from Viterbo University will be available for $180. Viterbo enrollment forms and payment will be collected during the first week of class.
