

This training is presented by the CESA 6 Literacy Center

Common Core Middle and High School English

November 26, 2013 & February 25, 2014 • 9:00 a.m. - 2:30 p.m.
Question/Answer session 2:30 - 3 p.m.

Presenter: Linda Baltus-Quist
CESA 6 Literacy Center Coordinator

Description

Examine CCSS-aligned reading and writing units of study, constructed by middle and high school teachers and literacy leaders from Wisconsin and around the country to gain insights or to possibly adopt a template for developing units. Consider how the Achievement Level Descriptors from Smarter Balanced Assessment System can aid in the development and use of formative assessments, unit exemplars, summative assessments and curriculum evaluation.

Workshop Objectives

- Understand how to apply the concepts behind “text complexity” into a classroom with a broad range of reading levels.
- Acquire strategies for engaging students in close reading that can be applied to any text.
- Select units of study to adopt, revise or inspire units for use with your students.
- Use SBA’s Achievement Level Descriptors to develop rubrics for the standards assessed in a unit of study.
- Understand a system for using SBA’s achievement level descriptors to inform instruction, assess student achievement, and evaluate curricular rigor.
