The focus for the Math Network this year will be on next generation assessment and the implications for instructional change. In 2014-2015 the new state tests will be here. During our meetings this year we will explore the design of these assessments, consider instructional shifts that are needed to help students meet the demands of these new assessments, and keep up to date with the current vision from the state. We will focus on topics related to "Mindsets", disciplinary literacy, and good math tasks that can help elicit student thinking.

Learning Outcomes:

1. Participants will share ideas with math leaders from other districts.
2. Participants will learn strategies for leading math discussions at their district sites.
3. Participants will brainstorm ideas to connect across the CESA 10 area.
