As we countdown to 2014-15, we draw closer to the deadline for the full scale implementation of Educator Effectiveness requirements.

Regardless of the system your district selects to evaluate educators and monitor effectiveness, writing high quality SLOs will be a part of that system. This year 2013-14 is full scale pilot. After this final pilot phase, the feedback will be gathered and revisions will be made to ready for state-wide implementation.

Please join us as we discuss how your district can be prepared to help teachers write high quality SLOs. At the end of the day, participants will be able to:

- Know how many SLOs are required
- Understand the state's process for implementing an evaluation system in which SLOs are a critical component
- Determine assessments upon which a SLO can be measured
- Determine methods to conduct a needs assessment for developing a SLO
- Know the components of a SMART SLO
- Understand how building, team, and individual SLOs are connected
- Analyze example SLOs to critique the quality of the SLO
- Write a SLO either using mock or actual needs assessment data

Each focus session will provide SLO samples for the targeted population. However, teachers will find the samples suitable for any teacher/principal SLO.
