“Don’t We Already Do Inclusion?”

Online Book Discussion

Dr. Paula Kluth has again written a lively, practical and engaging book regarding inclusion. It contains 100 ideas to implement practices to assist all learners. With an increased emphasis on providing all learners access to the Common Core State Standards in order to close achievement gaps for students with disabilities, this is a perfect time to look at our inclusive practices.

Join other educators in this online book discussion to reflect on our readings, share other ideas and brainstorm together to create the most inclusive environment appropriate for your learners.
