About the Presenter: Cathy Toll supports teacher learning by helping school leaders to invest in teachers and by helping educational coaches to achieve success. She believes teachers have the power to make a difference for children. Cathy has a career goal of making schools make sense for both students and adults. She has published widely for teacher leaders, including four books for coaches. Cathy has served as a teacher at the elementary, middle, and high school levels, a reading specialist, a curriculum coordinator, a principal, director of literacy research and development, university professor, grant director, consultant, and of course, educational coach. Her Ph.D. from Pennsylvania State University focused on language and literacy education with an emphasis on school change, teacher professional growth, and enactments of power in educational settings. She lives in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, where she bicycles whenever she can. She can be reached through her website, www.partneringtolearn.com.
