About the Presenter:

Dr. Cathy A. Toll is the founder and lead consultant of Toll and Associates. In this capacity, she has served in meeting the needs of coaches and those who support them. She travels internationally providing workshops, coaching, and consulting with schools, school districts, state departments of education. From those prior years of providing expertise to teacher leaders she has taken a new focus in working with school administrators. In her words...“However, the dire straits of many school situations can be altered even more through a broader consideration of teacher learning.” With that end in mind Dr. Toll would like to share her vast knowledge in order to support school administrators with the skills to have conversations with staff in a manner that will increase professional knowledge and positively impact student achievement.

The evidence is clear: Teacher learning is most effective when it is job-embedded and collaborative.

But how can you make it happen? This workshop provides information and strategies for school administrators who want to support teacher learning in the most effective ways. With new Perspectives and skills, you can support teacher learning that leads to greater student learning!

Topics include:

- The AIM model of teacher learning
- How to influence teachers’ learning
- Supporting and advancing educational coaching in your schools
- Separating coaching from supervising
- Supervisory questions that further teacher learning
- Characteristics of learning communities
- Optimizing the success of professional learning teams

Cost: $175/all 3 dates
Registration Deadline:
August 2, 2010

Audience: District Administrators, Principals, Directors of Instruction, Special Education Directors, Pupil Services Directors, Teacher Leaders

Cancellation Policy: Any workshop registration cancellations must be received 48 hours before the workshop scheduled date, for a refund to be issued.
