

Facilitators

Laura Gleisner is a Literacy and Instructional Services Consultant for CESA #2. In this role, she facilitates educational growth and organizational development by providing staff development trainings for differentiated instruction, instructional coaching, 6+1 Traits of Writing and literacy. She is also a certified trainer for the The Intel® Teach Program. This professional development program helps teachers design units of instruction that incorporate the principles of differentiated instruction and 21st century skills as well as technology integration.

Wendy Wegenke is the consultant for English Language Learners (ELL) and Gifted and Talented programs at CESA #2. In addition, Wendy serves as the liaison to the Educational Communications Board (ECB) which provides leadership and coordination of PK4 – 12 public television resources and related technology. Wendy provides professional development training for teachers of gifted and talented students, developing parents groups and implementing programs which support the unique needs of non-English learners.

Workshop Description

Differentiated instruction is a systemic approach to help teachers ensure that every student is learning, regardless of interests, learning styles, or readiness for school. It's meeting students where they are and providing appropriate challenge and support so that each of them can move forward. This professional development opportunity will help teachers meet Rtl's definition of high-quality instruction, which states that inherent to high-quality instruction is rigorous content delivered through differentiated instruction.

Participants will learn:

- The role differentiated instruction plays in a successful Rtl system
- Key principles of high-quality differentiated instruction
- How to create a classroom environment conducive to differentiated instruction
- To differentiate by content, process and product
- How to use formative and summative assessments when designing learner-centered lessons
- Ways to pre-assess general readiness, interest, and learning profile
- How to design respectful activities
- To use flexible grouping strategies

Administrivia:
